James Levine & Associates, P.C. provides an integrated array of services. We function as a team, and offer consultation based on our in-depth knowledge of schools and the developmental needs of children. At the same time, therapy services may occur in school or at their offices. While they ensure confidentiality, their goal is to coordinate interventions so that schools and families work together to ensure the educational, social, and psychological well-being of children. They provide extensive professional development training for school personnel along with mental health and family support agencies.

The Early Childhood Autism Clinic is now offering multi-disciplinary play-based comprehensive evaluations for children who may be at risk for autism spectrum disorders.
